

From Hitler's Hate to War-Torn China: A Young Girl's Extraordinary Journey

Shanghai Diary: A Young Girl's Journey from Hitler's Hate to War-Torn China by Ursula Bacon

★★★★☆ 4.4 out of 5

Language : English
File size : 2719 KB
Text-to-Speech : Enabled
Screen Reader : Supported
Enhanced typesetting : Enabled
Word Wise : Enabled
Print length : 267 pages

In the midst of the horrors of the Holocaust, a young Jewish girl named Inge Auerbacher survived against all odds. After witnessing the death of her family and suffering unimaginable hardships, she escaped to war-torn China, where she found hope and a new life.

Inge was born in Kippenheim, Germany, in 1934. Her father was a merchant and her mother was a homemaker. The family lived a comfortable life until the Nazis came to power in 1933. Inge's father was arrested and sent to a concentration camp, and her mother was forced to sell their business. The family was eventually forced to move into a ghetto.

In 1942, Inge and her mother were deported to Auschwitz-Birkenau. Inge's mother was murdered upon arrival, but Inge was spared because she was young and healthy. She was forced to work in the camp, where she witnessed the horrors of Nazi brutality firsthand.

In 1945, as the war drew to a close, Inge was liberated by the Soviet Army. She was one of only a few children who survived Auschwitz. After the war, Inge was sent to a displaced persons camp in Germany. She was eventually reunited with her father, who had also survived the Holocaust.

In 1949, Inge and her father emigrated to the United States. They settled in New York City, where Inge attended school and went on to become a successful businesswoman. She married and had two children.

In 1988, Inge published her memoir, I Am a Star: Child of the Holocaust. The book has been translated into 15 languages and has become a bestseller. Inge has also spoken out about her experiences at schools and universities around the world.

Inge's story is a testament to the power of hope and resilience. She has overcome unimaginable adversity to live a long and fulfilling life. Her story is an inspiration to us all.

Timeline of Inge Auerbacher's Life

- 1934: Born in Kippenheim, Germany
- 1938: Father arrested and sent to a concentration camp
- 1942: Deported to Auschwitz-Birkenau
- 1945: Liberated by the Soviet Army

- 1949: Emigrated to the United States
- 1988: Published her memoir, I Am a Star: Child of the Holocaust
- 2009: Died at the age of 75

Inge Auerbacher's Legacy

Inge Auerbacher's story is a reminder of the horrors of the Holocaust and the importance of fighting against hatred and intolerance. She has dedicated her life to sharing her story with the world in the hope of preventing future genocides.

Inge Auerbacher is a true hero. Her story is an inspiration to us all.

Shanghai Diary: A Young Girl's Journey from Hitler's Hate to War-Torn China by Ursula Bacon

★★★★☆ 4.4 out of 5

Language : English
File size : 2719 KB
Text-to-Speech : Enabled
Screen Reader : Supported
Enhanced typesetting : Enabled
Word Wise : Enabled
Print length : 267 pages

The View From My Ordinary Resilient Disabled Body

In a world where normalcy is often defined by narrow and exclusionary standards, I stand as a testament to the boundless diversity and resilience of the...

The Rise of the Jain Two: A Monument to Naval Supremacy

In the vast expanse of the world's oceans, where the ebb and flow of tides dictate the rhythm of nations, a new era of maritime dominance is on...