History

Seed In The Sky This Fine Crew was formed in 1989 by vocalist and guitarist Jeff Kelly, bassist Chris Macdonald, and drummer Paul Leary. The band's name is taken from a line in the Bob Dylan song "Subterranean Homesick Blues." Seed In The Sky This Fine Crew's early sound was influenced by the Seattle grunge scene, but the band's music quickly evolved to incorporate elements of alternative rock, psychedelic rock, and even country music.

Seed In The Sky This Fine Crew released their debut album, Stillborn, in 1991. The album was a critical and commercial success, and it helped to establish the band as one of the leading lights of the Seattle grunge scene. Seed In The Sky This Fine Crew followed up Stillborn with two more successful albums, Walls of Sound (1993) and Sound of the Swarm (1995). However, the band's popularity began to decline in the late 1990s as the grunge scene began to fade.

Seed In The Sky This Fine Crew continued to release albums and tour throughout the 2000s and 2010s. The band's most recent album, The Way of the Seed, was released in 2018. Seed In The Sky This Fine Crew remains one of the most influential bands of the grunge era, and their music continues to be enjoyed by fans around the world.
